Rackabeat & Bar-Low

Rackabeat & Barlow are to be found somewhere in the deep, dark and bass filled land that is the South-West. They decided it was time to take off their respective hip-hop and drum & bass DJ hats and embark on a new purpose, fusing, mixing and cutting anything that simply sounded good. No longer would these technically skilled DJ's be defined by a single genre, but by their eclectic selection of phat party classics, bootlegs, remixes and bass heavy beats.

With mixing contributions from Rory Brattwell, James Yuill and D/R/U/G/S, it's a 10-strong collection of pure, simple, cheek-flushing songs...

"Finally a credible contemporary homage to the glory days of British shoegaze... an authentic revitalisation of this old sound, yet it exists with a tasteful modern touch. Allow me to introduce TOWNS. Pitch-bending, psychedelic guitar riffs with underlying levels of fuzz, hard-hitting drums and spacey vocals with dreamy harmonies..."
